

[0:50] Melainah: Thank you, Gabriel, for that beautiful opening.

Aloha, Everyone,
It's another beautiful day here today here in Paradise.

So, I want to talk to you a little bit tonight about our Anchi Crystals.
At last year's Conference Kathleen McGarry introduced those to us.
And for many of us, we had a very strong resonance to those Anchis Stones.

When Kathleen first handed one to me, the first thing they said was that "We are the Ancient of Ancients. We existed before time was time." We came to learn that the Anchis are comprised of some of the oldest matter ever found on Earth.

Like many of you, I wished to have my own Anchis. Over the course of communicating about my personal Anchi with Glynda Yoder, who is one of the Keepers of the Anchi mine, she was told by the Anchi Consciousness to send five Anchi Stones to me, to be placed in the ocean with the Dolphins and the Whales. Of course, I knew immediately they were to be taken to the Portal of No Time, Space, or Dimensions.

But I received the five Anchis almost a year ago. And I have attempted several times, numerous times actually, to go and place them in the Vortex. And every time, something would happen to prevent that. Either the ocean conditions were such that we could not make it to where the Vortex is, or about three or four mornings, I woke up, when I had planned to go, and I was running an unexplained fever and I could not go on the boat. But however, I trusted that when the timing was right, it would happen.

So throughout this past year, some of you in our Community have visited with me in Hawaii and have had the opportunity to sit with these stones. I know Katie certainly has, Diana, Linley, Cliff, Kazuko -- I think that is everyone. So, they had been infused with our Group's Energetics through each of them. They've also been sitting with the Stones that we've had, that I have with me, that were at the Conference the last few years as well.

So last Monday, July 15, I was going on the boat. And for those of you who know them, Raphaelle and Michael Tamura and their group were here for their yearly visit and had chartered the boat. The Anchis told me very clearly that they had to be placed before this year's Conference, which means they had to be placed before I left the island, which is tomorrow morning. So, I spoke with both Michael and Raphaelle before departure and I asked if they was OK with me if I invited their group to participate in my completing an assignment that I had been given. And they both said, "Absolutely".

[4:18] They had a large group this year, so we had a small second boat going out. Raphaele was going to go on the second boat with that part of the group, so I gave her one of the Anchis to her for her boat and spoke with the other ladies on her boat about what we would be doing and asked if they would each hold the Stone and infuse it with whatever Blessing they wished for the Planet. Then once underway, I shared the same thing with the group on my boat. The four remaining Anchis were passed to each person on the boat. This was a very high frequency group and the Anchis were happy to receive their Blessings.

An hour or so ago, I posted a photo on the Seating of the Divine Facebook page of the five Anchis. As you can see, they are with my White Dragon and Goddess figurine. In the photo, in the back of course, is the Hathors. So the Dragons have been a huge part of the last couple of calls. Joan and I both have been amazed at how all of these various pieces are now coming together. So, when I tell you this next part, it should come as no surprise to you that these five Anchis are called Dragon Stones.

It was one of those perfect Kona mornings on the ocean – sun-filled blue skies, calm, water, no wind. In the days prior to the trip, I had set my intention that we would make it to the Portal and that we would have lots of Dolphins. So we headed up the coastline. And, as we headed north and we were passing the bay by the airport, we saw Dolphins in there. Well this is a bay that the Dolphins used to sleep in almost every day. But according to my crew, they had not swum with them there but on rare occasions in the past two years. And as it turned out, we had a two-hour swim there in that bay.

So, I mentioned to Captain Michael to allow us enough time for us to go up to the Portal to place the Stones, before we had to head in. So within fifteen minutes of my mentioning that to him, the Dolphins disappeared. So we gathered everyone and headed up the coast. We were not quite sure where the Dolphins had gone; as they do, they just disappeared, even though there were several hundred Dolphins in that bay that morning. So we gathered everyone and headed up the coast. And at some point, the Dolphins surfaced next to us, and then dropped behind our boat. And they were spread out widely on both sides all the way out to the second boat flanking them.

So, I want you to envision us: our boats in the lead with two hundred Dolphins behind our boats going out thirty, forty, fifty yards on each side, next to us, with all the other boats behind. So the other boats tried to catch up, because the Dolphins were jumping and leaping and riding the bow of the boat, and you know, jumping those waves. They were trying to catch up, but somehow it was like they had set some kind of invisible barrier, and every one of them backed off. It was very obvious that something special was going on. And some of the people on my boat even commented on it.

[7:53] So, this escort lasted probably, easily twenty minutes, if not longer. So as we passed the bay that is before the Vortex, the Dolphins slowed down and gently turned into shore. And all the other boats followed them and stopped there.

Our two boats continued on to the Portal. Once we were in place, I shared with the group that this was a very special place that we called the Cathedral, that is was for me the place where the veils were the thinnest to the Ancient Ones and to Lemuria. I did not tell them our significance of that spot. And then I shared a little about the Anchis with them.

So, I asked Raphaelle, who was on the other boat, to drop the first Anchi into the ocean. I then asked Michael Tamura to drop the second one.

We had a few children on board, and there was one little girl, who was 11 years old. Her name is Galadriel. And she is a bright little Light Being. So I asked her if she would drop the next one for all generations – past, present, and future. All of you would have been so moved by the reverence with which she accepted and held the Stone before she dropped it.

The fourth Anchi was dropped by a lady named Amy, who is part Hawaiian and grew up here.

As Michael Tamura was on the bow of the boat, holding the Anchi before he dropped it, we noticed that a small pod of Dolphins had broken away from the bigger group and very quietly had come in to surround the boat to witness this ceremony.

While I did not realize it at the time, I later felt that those who were asked to drop the Crystals was not a random selection. I really hadn't planned anybody other than asking Raphael to drop the first one.

So first, there is Raphaelle and Michael. To begin with, their names could not have been more perfect, since the Archangels by that name are very much a part of everything that we do. And also, their union is one of Sacred Harmony, with a beautiful blend holding the balanced masculine and feminine.

The 11-year old Galadriel represented the innocence and the hope for all beings and our Earth.

Amy represented the Hawaiian people, their history, and its culture as the Kia'i, which means Guardians/protectors of this sacred place known as Hawaii.

So that's four of our Stones --

[11:16] And now for the fifth Stone –

Earlier in the morning when we were with that huge pod of Dolphins, I was told that only four of the Anchis were to be left in the ocean that day. That the fifth one was to go to our Conference in September. I was to ask those of you who have Anchis to bring one to the Conference to connect with this one.

The one I chose to come to the Conference was held by me in the water with the Dolphins for about fifteen minutes. This fifth Anchi is shaped very much like this Island – the Island of Hawaii.

The group were all in gratitude and very moved to have had the opportunity to participate in the ceremony. And every person on board was impacted by it.

And I'm sure you will find this as amusing as I did. Part of the theme for Michael and Raphaelle's seminar was called "Lemuria Rising".

Divine Perfection was at play in every aspect of the day. It was a WOW day for sure!

When we returned to shore, I went to thank Raphaelle. She then told me she had an amazing experience on the water and that she would email me with all she saw, heard, and felt.

So, with Divine timing still at work, on Sunday I sat down at the computer to make some notes for this call. About five minutes in, I saw a notification that I had an email from Raphaelle. So, I stopped to read her email.

If you are ready for a bit more WOW – I invite you all to take a deep breath.....

And with her permissions and Blessing to all of you, I will share with you what she wrote.

For those of you who don't know Raphaelle, she is a teacher, very clairvoyant, and she and Michael lived in Mt. Shasta for many years.

And when she wrote this email to me, she could not recall the name of the Anchi Crystals.

From Raphaelle:

“Here is what I experienced:

First, I noticed each person in our smaller boat felt a very strong connection with the Spirit of the rock. It was so beautiful watching each one infusing it with their love and trust that whatever would happen with it would be somehow for the highest good of everyone on Earth.

Before we even arrived at the boat ride that day, I noticed that we were being “tracked” by a large (invisible or cloaked) UFO – a beautiful shaped and almost pure-white one and quite large, in the regular circular, but large circular shape. I said hello to the occupants and got a very clear vision of a tall E.T., the kind with the big eyes...

I somehow knew it was a female, and her energy was extremely loving and full of compassion for me and for our entire group, especially you. I did not get a name, but she indicated telepathically to me that we all knew her on the inner planes. She was tall (maybe over six feet tall) and she wore a beautiful, glowing white gown type of thing that looked ceremonial and it had a kind of thick, golden cord around her very narrow waist. It was a delight to be in touch with her throughout the trip up until we placed the stones.

Once everyone on our boat was done infusing the stone with their energy and love, I did the same until I felt it was ready, then I held onto it for the entire trip, even when I needed my hands. I found a way to hold onto it and not let it go until it was time for it to go. The stone communicated to me that it had a definite purpose in going into the Hawaiian waters.

Meanwhile, I felt and clairvoyantly saw the cloaked UFO ship overhead the entire time, following us (it was quite a crown-chakra experience) – and as we stopped at that bay to drop the stone in, the UFO ship also passed right above us. As I was preparing to drop the rock, I got the following communication from my female E.T. friend:

These stones have extremely special qualities which will allow us to infuse your Earth with the kind of energy that will help bring a type of healing to the earthly environs. These stones will be mixed with our technology to bring in those rays of light onto the Earth to heal her (Mother Earth’s) body and to heal the minds (of those who are ready for it) – of people and help clear past “garbage” including trauma and finished karmic cycles from them. It will start with the land and people/visitors of Hawaii and eventually go all over the world. This will be a process that will take about a year to finish. Having groups of people drop these stones indicate the representation of permission for us to help your entire species and planet. You are all bearers of this permission-giving.

The last stone which will be placed later will go to a different area where we will direct Melainah to go with her other group, and when done, the energy can be looped around the world, spreading in what looks like energetic concentric circles and ovals, overlaying each other, exciting each other and bringing about amplified healing.

The last stone to be dropped will be at a most unusual place, as it will be near a part of Hawaii not often visited by people. Melainah will know on the day of the placing where that will be, as we will communicate with her directly. Once we infuse it with our technology, meant only for good, it will continue to radiate out for years to come.

We will return to this spot in five years to re-infuse it with this energetic technology (2024) and of course it is perfectly okay for you or Melainah and her people to visit these spots in that year to experience the up-tick we will bring to the radiating energy from these stones. The stones “hold” the energetic rays we will infuse in them (and the water around them) for about five years. We will come every five years after that until it is no longer needed.

My new E.T. friend bowed respectfully and faded away from my vision. The energy she left behind was kind, loving, and, if I am reading this right, extremely hopeful – though a more subtle emotion. I believe a most important one. These beings are really on our side and wish to help in every way they can.

I also got the sense you might know this being, Melainah. She did not say where she was from and I did not ask. But she is definitely not from here (like the tall or short grays) and she wasn't grey. She was white of skin and her energy exuded nothing but the purest of love and kindness and a very high vibration of spirituality and compassion, as I said.

Thank you, Melainah, for choosing us to be a part of this very sacred ceremony. It will be interesting to see the changes that come first to the Big Island then around the world in the years to come. Maybe clairvoyantly check in with it now and then and see how it's progressing (I'll do the same) – maybe we can compare notes.”

Melainah: Then she gives her Mahalos.

[20:06] Melainah: Then I wrote her back, thanking her for sharing her experience. And I gave her a little bit more information about the Anchis. And I also wrote this:

“For me their energy and current message has been about the Divine Mother aspect of the Sacred Feminine.”

And in another email she responded:

“It’s interesting that you mentioned the Divine Feminine as part of the experience – to me it was so obvious. I guess that is why I didn’t even bring it up. Yes, it is very much a heralding of the Divine Feminine principle, which is why it is bringing that kind of healing to the earth and emotional (especially) healing to everyone, including men. So yes, of course, the healing has a lot to do with that.”
